

Earn priority admission to the California State University with junior standing once you earn an Associate Degree for Transfer (AA-T or AS-T) at a California community college. The new joint transfer program is the best path for students like you to transfer between the two college systems. Complete 60 units at a California community college to receive your AA-T or AS-T, then complete 60 units* at a California State University to receive your bachelor's degree. For more information, go to ADegreeWithAGuarantee.com, or see a high school counselor, community college counselor or representative from a California State University.

90 units at a quarter campus.*
